Protecting the natural beauty of Cassiobury Park

Contributing to its future

Cassiobury Park

A wonderful local asset for us to enjoy and protect

Caring for your park and contributing to its future

For Park Visitors:

We are fortunate in Watford to have a magnificent park to enjoy for sport, dog walking, birdwatching, playing with our children, picnicking, having a coffee with friends, or simply walking through the extensive woodlands.

Friends of the Park:

- Engage with members, other park stakeholders, the Park Manager and Watford Council to discuss and influence issues that affect Cassiobury.
- Contribute to the development and maintenance of the nature reserve by working with Herts and Middlesex Wildlife Trust.
- Create wildlife habitats, manage woodland and clear litter by working as volunteers.
- Encourage a wide variety of bird-life by filling the park bird-feeders with seed in the winter.
- Produce regular e-bulletins and a quarterly 'Park Life' e-magazine to keep members up-to-date with what's going on in Cassiobury'.

For Nature:

Wildlife, such as kingfisher, water-rail, deer, heron and great-crested newt thrive in the local nature reserve - a special and often overlooked feature of the Park. While over the canal, Whippendell Wood is renowned for its bluebells, butterflies and beetles.

Become a Friend of the Park

Already a park user? As a Friend you'll get even more out of your experience - getting to know more about the park - its past, present and future - in the company of friendly like-minded people.

It's not expensive and you can participate as much or as little as you like, knowing your membership fee will be well used. Read our bulletins and e-magazine to get to know what's going on; attend our annual meeting and occasional social gatherings to make new friends; keep fit by joining the work parties; get involved in the running of the Friends by joining the committee.
